It's Time to Think Ahead to Camp Season

AND WAYS TO ENJOY SUMMER IN CLARK COUNTY

As the school year is winding down, it's time to start planning for summer fun! While the relaxation at the beginning of summer sounds great, there will likely come a time when the kids want to get out and do something. (And parents are ready for the kids to be out of the house for a few hours!). The experience of summer camps can be a chance to make new friends, learn a new activity or improve on an existing skill. There are plenty of local opportunities available in our area to use up some youthful energy and broaden imaginations.

Does your child like to work on Legos, or Code or play mad scientist? There are a variety of STEM and science-based options available through the YMCA and Camp Invention.

How about those kids and adults who want to relax and read? The Fort Vancouver Summer Library program has you covered.

Got a kid who loves to be around animals or outdoors? Joshua Tait, Royal Ridges Retreat Executive Director shared, "Royal Ridges horse program is popular and is the reason many kids attend camp. But if horses aren't their thing, we have an adventure, paintball, and traditional day camp with activities like high ropes, Rockwall, and canoes. They are all a hit with the kids."

Royal Ridges is known for being an accessible, safe, and fun place to send kids to camp. And there is a bus program that picks up kids all over Clark County, alleviating the burden of families getting their kids to camp in Yacolt. This saves time and gas for parents who would otherwise make the trip to Yacolt twice a day. According to Tait, Royal Ridges is so impactful that many staff were once campers, and now their children attend camp. "Royal Ridges is a special place that continues to call people back. Campers talk about the horses they've ridden in the past and the ones they will remember forever. The high ropes course is also a highlight for many kids. It's scary, and completing it is a huge accomplishment."

Energy to Burn? There is a broad variety of sports camps offered by the YMCA, and an assortment of camp providers offering lessons or camps in Swimming, Tennis, Football, and more.

Want to soak up some sunshine (liquid or the real kind)? The Summer Boating Camp at Vancouver Lake may be just the thing. "Our camp will focus on having fun in boats.

Open to ages 7-10 with no boating experience, we teach basic skills to paddle a kayak, dragon boat, canoe, stand-up-paddle board and rowing shell," says Coach Conor Bullis. "Campers say they like the kayak, paddle boards, buoy races, land games and of course the snacks!" All of this, with an opportunity to smile and laugh while paddling a boat and making new friends.

What about the artsy kids (and adults?) Medallion Art School has been in Vancouver for over 30 years. Owned by Judi and Bob Whiting, this school offers a summer camp where children have a chance to create different pieces of art each day. Campers work with various genres and media including charcoal drawing, pastels, watercolors and acrylics. They can also learn a bit about art history and famous artists. According to Bob and Judi, "Campers love the variety, from creating original cartoons to learning about perspective drawing, and actually doing a colorful painting on canvas. They also love purchasing snacks that are available for their daily morning break." After each day, parents are invited to enjoy a walk-through art show and see what the campers have created. "The pride of accomplishment is amazing! Campers love successfully creating a special artwork and doing it in a new or different way. Many times, their projects win ribbons if entered at the Clark County Fair. It is great for their self esteem," states Whiting. "Our school's motto is, Art Lessons, the Gift That Lasts a Lifetime!"

Know any kids that need to express themselves through Song, Dance, or Drama? There are over 20 listings for camps of all kinds for those that like to express themselves through the performing arts from a variety of organizations.

Check out the many options for family fun this summer and let them know you saw their ad in the Columbian or on Columbian.com
