Beach Time Fun!

What's your favorite part about the beach? Is it lying in the sun? Splashing in the water? Building sandcastles? Or flying your kite? There are so many fun things to do at the beach!

And what's even better are the unique beaches in Washington and Oregon. Feel like taking a beach hike? You can walk along the Olympic Peninsula in the Olympic National Park. Go explore the tide pools on Crescent Beach in Oregon or walk up to Haystack Rock during low tide. You can visit the Oregon Sand Dunes and ride a dune buggy. Go see one of the many lighthouses in Oregon or Washington. Or have an adult drive you on the longest beach in the United States located in Long Beach, Washington! There are so many unique things to do!

Not only are there a lot of cool things to do at the beach, there are also tons of amazing animals you can see! When you head to the beach, don't forget your binoculars so you can look for whales, orcas, and birds. There are sea lions and seals along the shore too! Or you can try to identify all the sea creatures like crabs, urchin, starfish, or anemones.

So, head over to one of the amazing beaches in Oregon or Washington this summer! And don't forget your sunscreen!

JULY BOOK REVIEW

Whales to the Rescue: How Whales Help Engineer the Planet by Adrienne Mason

The perfect book for any whale or ocean lover! Whales to the Rescue explores all things about whales from a whale's food chain to their migration routes. Packed with a lot of information, readers will learn all about whales and how they help the planet. This book has beautiful illustrations with amazing detail.

After reading this book, you will understand how whales help an ocean's ecosystem by learning how they travel, what they eat, and how much they poop. So, if you love the beach, whales, or just love learning new things, check out Whales to the Rescue. Then, head over to your local beach and help clean up the garbage so it doesn't end up in the ocean where it can harm whales.
